TOM HOCKIN BIDS FAREWELL

75

TO MARK RETIRING TOM HOCKIN'S FINAL APPEARANCE BEFORE THE ST. ANDREW'S COMMUNITY, THE ANDREAN IS PLEASED TO PUBLISH AN ABRIDGED VERSION OF THE HEADMASTER'S SPEECH ON PRIZE DAY JUNE 12, 1981

...A great school is not measured solely by its financial stability, its waiting list of applicants and new facilities, although we are grateful for that. I believe that a fine school does not, and should not, aim at mere specialization. It must accept from all of Canada and around the world, boys of ability, but not only of gifted intellectual ability, to lay for them the foundation of a good general education. I believe we now have at St. Andrew's in terms of people and facilities, all that is needed for doing this task as well as any school in Canada.

The world is a battlefield of intellects and enthusiasts. Men and women of science, industry, art, commerce and finance, in each country develop their powers and skills to help their country and to fulfil the best that is within them. But I believe regardless of country, they will do their best only if they can benefit from a system which lays, when they are young, broad foundations to provide the skills and habits for 1) a successful vocation, 2) for lifelong interests and hobbies and 3) for dedication to their community. This is the rationale for a general education. Each of you in time must become something of a specialist in this battlefield of intellects. Each of you will have to pick and choose the things that matter. Yet each of you will find this difficult to do without a broad appreciation of the world while you are young. Then you will tackle your specialty with enthusiasm.

I defend therefore today not only general education but something else. Whatever your occupation, hobbies or interest later in life, I hope that you will hang on to your boyish simplicity, imagination, and idealism. Most boys, I have found, are idealists of some kind. Every boy I have seen here is touched by these qualities to some degree. Part of the task of a Headmaster is to provide constructive outlets and stimulants for enthusiasm, imagination and idealism, not to wish it would go away. I suppose this, together with my concern for the school's academic, physical and financial improvement has been my special concern in my 7 years here.

The content of our courses, the example of our masters can supply much of this idealism. So can sports, drama, music. I've always believed "expansion week" experiences off campus, learning another language in a foreign culture, briefly visiting another culture, meeting stimulating authors or scientists or professionals, or being responsible for an activity, be it the school newspaper, Mayfest, the yearbook, Macdonald House, house league activities or clubs or cadets, or participating in our Science Institute or the Weizmann Institute — any of these can help spark and direct wholesome enthusiasm with which to stimulate the intellect.

I have hoped our school would reflect the constructive vitality of youth, not deny it. In our seven years together I believe this has been part of the reason for our success academically, in sports, in cadets, in music, drama and so on.

Cecil Rhodes, the founder of the Rhodes Scholarships, once said "that all he had ever done in his life he had glimpsed by the age of 16".

Take a look at any truly successful person, be it a master, a scientist, an artist or a businessman and you will often see great wondering, imaginative eyes. It is here at St. Andrew's, where that imagination and idealism can begin, here in the classroom, under captivating masters and in all else that can be provided outside the classroom.

Be disciplined, do your duty day in and day out but link it to enthusiasm and you will surely prosper.

The saddest thing about Canada, I sometimes feel, is the decline of enthusiasms. One of the noblest periods in British life was the period of Newman, Darwin, Huxley, Tennyson, Mill, Gilbert, Sullivan, and a host of others. Schoolboys and college men were not ashamed to have their heroes and enthusiasms then. Without passion, the mind can do little except accumulate information, and information is only of use if you can use it in daily life. No man ever did anything worthwhile if he did not do it passionately - (not with noise, agitation and excitement), but with fire in his soul.

The young man who has no enthusiasm, no hobbies, no community interests will get cold feet morally and intellectually. He will become simply a cynic.

The key to good intellect and enthusiasm is, I believe, to have a good general education at this age and to have a passion for something beyond yourself. I believe therefore that each of you, after the privileges of a St. Andrew's education, should always try to contribute something to your community and your country; either through public life, or helping volunteer organizations. You don't have to run for Parliament, you can serve on a school board, or help United Appeal, or help St. Andrew's. If you do, you will find satisfaction and fulfilment.

One finds this answer to a mission beyond yourself in your vision of the creator of us all. Your knowledge of God is what will give you true passion, vision and understanding. Be logical, be informed, work hard but have a passion for the vision of God and your lives will be broad, tolerant and expert.

I believe the Headmaster-designate, Mr. Bob Bedard, the best example of all I have been speaking of. Mr. Bedard is devout, patient, firm and an insightful educator of young men. The school will be in strong hands with this good man and quiet leader. He greatly deserves your support and respect.

To the Upper Sixth may I say in conclusion that I hope all of you, as my family and I do, leave a part of your heart here. I pray that you, like me, will remember the rigour of learning here, and the enabling enthusiasms of St. Andrew's. I hope too that the pipes, the drums, the cheers, the rustle of the trees, the music, will forever whisper in your memory, as it will in mine. May the insights, the friendships, the hardships and the joys of this magnificent place strengthen you forever.

Be men, be strong and remember it is a privilege to be here be it as a student, a master or a Headmaster.

Thomas A. Hockin

Forced indoors by an unco-operative weatherman, Prize Day ceremonies this year were held in the new gymnasium. It proved adequate to accomodate the large number of visitors although many had to stand either in the gallery or along the walls.

A view of the large crowd of visitors, with some of the student body on the left.

It was a big day for Paul Stanborough, son of Mrs. John Stanborough and the late Mr. Stanborough of Sarnia. Paul was awarded the Lieutenant Governor's Silver Medal, the Charles Ashton Medal for English, the H.E. Goodman Prize for Chemistry, the Dr. D.R. McLaughlin Memorial Prize for English and the Sciences, and as Cadet Lt. Col. of this year's Cadet Corps, accepted the Strathcona Trophy for the best closed Corps in Ontario. He is shown receiving congratulations from Peter D.G. Harris, Chairman of the Board of Governors, and (below) from Derek Inglis, Chief Instructor of the Cadet Corps. This was the second year in succession that the Corps won the trophy.

Following the presentation of prizes, a Dinner/Dance was held in the Great Hall for graduates, their parents and friends.

Dr. Hockin congratulates Michael Bedard on his achievement of winning the Macdonald medal, presented in honour of Dr. D. Bruce Macdonald to the graduate most distinguished in studies and athletics taken together. Son of Mr. & Mrs. Robert Bedard, Michael duplicated the feat of his older brother, Mark, who won the medal in 1977.

Mrs. Esther Ketchum Thompson presents the Dr. K.G.B. Ketchum Cords to the best novice piper, James Lank of Orangeville, under the watchful eye of Assistant Headmaster Lloyd MacPherson.

The Laidlaw Trophy, awarded to the student in Upper VI who has won for his Clan the greatest number of points during his last two years at the School is enthusiastically accepted by Graham Collins, son of Mr. & Mrs. Fred Collins of Markham.

S.A.C. Association President Jim Herder presents his prize to Ariel Silva, son of Old Boy Ariel Silva '53 of Puerto Rico.

The retirement dinner for Tom and Mary Hockin was held in the Great Hall on June 11th, the night before Prize Day. It was attended by present and former members of the Board of Governors, the staff of the School and their wives. The S.A.C. Association marked the occasion with a presentation to the Hockins of a handsome walnut shield with the School's arms in the centre, surrounded by fourteen brass plates each one recording a Frist team ISAA championship won during Tom's seven years as Headmaster.

It's been said many a time that almost everyone who attends boarding school carries away memories of certain incidents which are never forgotten. The article below illustrates the point, written by Joseph E. McDougall '19 and appearing in the Montreal Star on May 18, 1979 - sixty odd years after the event. Some of the names mentioned will be familiar to a lot of Andreans.

IT'S NO DISGRACE TO CRY

By J.E. McDOUGALL

MY FATHER would have been pleased if I had turned out to be an outstanding athlete. So would I, I tried, goodness knows I tried. But I just didn't have it.

That's probably why I still tend sometimes to have a feeling that gets pretty close to reverence for those who do have it, or did in their day, the gridiron heroes, the gladiators. It's still hard for me to accept it when the newspapers carry stories of one of my paragons displaying signs of human weakness.

I did have one moment of glory. It was heavy stuff. That was the year I came first in the seventy-five pound boxing class at school. I still have the medal. It may have been that moment of triumph that gave me a certain feeling of relationship with the great ones. Like Duke Somers for instance.

Duke was one of the older boys. He had a broken nose. He walked with a slight limp in his left leg. You got the impression that he could do just about anything he wanted to. The younger boys knew he smoked cigarettes, and it was excitedly whispered, with complete lack of evidence, that one of the waitresses was sweet on him — the pretty one. He was probably the best flying wing the first football team ever had. I used to strain my heart out on the sidelines as Duke grunted and drove his way across the goal line for winning touch downs. He never noticed me.

That is to say, he was unaware of my existence until one late spring afternoon, the year after I won the medal, when I was hurrying back to the dorm. It was growing dusk. As I passed the gym I heard somebody whisper my name.

"Hey kid, come here," said the voice.

It was coming from one of the gym windows. I went over and peered through the chicken wire that covered it. There was somebody inside there but I couldn't see who it was.

"Hey, kid," said the voice. "It's Duke. You gotta help me. I was smoking up on top of the wrestling mats and Chappy closed up the gym and locked me inside."

"Gee, Duke," I said, "what can I do?"

"It's easy," said Duke. "All you gotta do is sneak into the masters' common room and get the keys. There'll be nobody there right now. They're hanging in a big bunch just inside the door."

The masters' common room was at the top of the wide main stairway. There was nobody about. The great oak door was slightly ajar. I listened. Not a sound, I pushed it open a little. Still no sound, I stepped cautiously into the brown semidarkness of the empty room with its worn leather chairs and the heavy aroma of stale pipe tobacco. There were the keys, just where Duke said they'd be. I lifted them off the hook and stumbled down the stairs trying to hide them by holding them against me, then along the hall to the gym. I found the right key on the second try.

"Thanks kid," said Duke as he rushed past me.

"But Duke," I called. "What'll I do with these?"

"Put 'em back," said Duke as he disappeared.

I managed to do so.

That year I was in the eighty-five pound class. I won the qualifying rounds against easy competition. My opponent in the finals was "Shiner" Gallagher. Tough, but I was confident. Pretty confident, that is. As I climbed into the ring there was a sound behind me. I looked back. It was Duke.

"Go get 'im kid," he said in his gruff voice. "I'll be your second."

Of course, there weren't any such things as seconds, but now I was really confident.

As it turned out Shiner beat me going away. In front of Duke, too. I wasn't hurt, but something happened I couldn't control. There, before everybody, tears welled up and ran down my cheeks. I panicked, slid down out of the ring and tore out of the gym.

As I ran down the corridor heavy steps were pounding behind me. A rough hand caught my shoulder and spun me around.

"I'm sorry, Duke," I blurted. "I'm sorry. I didn't mean to cry. I didn't mean to."

Duke's fingers bit into my shoulder.

"What's the matter with you?" he said. "I've cried lots of times."

As I walked home that afternoon, I managed to affect a slight limp in my left leg. My father took the news calmly enough. I didn't tell him about Duke.

When the following year, the headmaster rose in chapel and read out Duke's name among those who had been killed in France the previous week, I did not cry.

BEQUESTION THROUGH LIFE INSURANCE

The St. Andrew's College Foundation has introduced an interesting new option to Old Boys and others who wish to leave a bequest to the School.

By using all, or part, of a donation to the Foundation to buy a life insurance policy, St. Andrew's becomes the owner-beneficiary and pays the premiums.

HERE'S HOW IT WORKS

An individual purchases a new life insurance policy naming the Foundation as owner and beneficiary. The donor makes contributions to the Foundation equal to the insurance premiums. He receives an annual receipt for income tax purposes for the full amount of his contribution and the Foundation uses the donation to pay the premium. At death, the face amount of the policy is paid directly to the Foundation or

An individual transfers the ownership of an existing life insurance policy to the Foundation and receives an immediate receipt for income tax purposes equal to the cash surrender value of the policy. At death, the Foundation receives the face amount of the policy.

SOME OF THE ADVANTAGES

1. A larger gift can be made through small annual deposits for life insurance, than through an estate bequest or lifetime gift.
2. It gives the average Old Boy a chance to leave a substantial legacy to the College, rather than the Foundation having to depend solely on the generosity of the wealthier Old Boys.

3. The life insurance gift is independent of the donor's will and does not deplete his estate and deprive his heirs. For instance, an Old Boy may have the best intentions in mind when he leaves the school money in his will, but twenty years later when he dies, there may not be enough money available or if there is, the payment could deprive his family, and lead to ill feelings and possible contestations.
4. Psychologically, it is much easier to "create" say $50,000 at death, rather than "commit" your estate to $50,000. Money that may or may not be available at death!
5. It gives an Old Boy an opportunity to fund a scholarship or trust for any appropriate interest he may have had during his lifetime.
6. It also gives corporations the opportunity to make large gifts in memory of their founders, directors and presidents etc., and pay the premiums with tax deductible corporation dollars. Here is where the college can expect the million dollar gifts.

CADETS OUTSTANDING

St. Andrew's was highly honoured this year to have as Inspecting Officer, the Honourable John B. Aird, O.C., Q.C., LL.D., Lieutenant Governor of Ontario. Mrs. Aird, daughter of the late Harry B. Housser '03, one of the original students of S.A.C. accompanied her husband.

BANDSMEN HONOURED

Eight members of the S.A.C. Cadet Corps Band under the supervision of John Clements of the Music Dept. staff, were signally honoured to be selected as members of the 48th Highlanders of Canada Military Band which participated in a musical pageant at Wembley Stadium in England last June. The group rehearsed for a week, rising at 5 a.m. most mornings, and took part in two weekend performances along with two thousand bandsmen. Later the boys met the Queen inside Buckingham Palace.

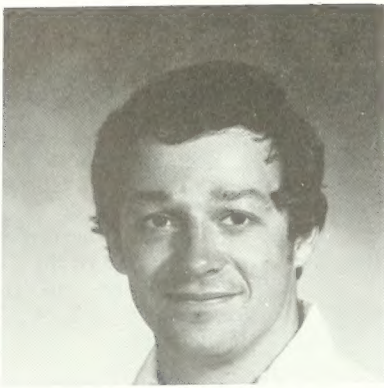

The group included Brian and Grant Clark, Jeff Long, Mark Hawley, Peter Bedard, Andrew Lane-Smith, Andrew Harman and Ian Gorwill.

The Ellsworth Trophy for the best platoon was won by # 1 Platoon, commanded by Cadet Lt. Dana Omstead of Toronto. Here he receives the trophy from Lt. Col. David Temple, C.D., C.O. of the 48th Highlanders.

SPORTS PARTICIPATION

PAUL G. KITCHEN

The Andean is pleased to welcome back Paul G. Kitchen to the School as a member of the teaching staff. Paul attended St. Andrew's 1965 - 70 and went on to University of Toronto where he obtained degrees of B.Sc. in Physical & Health Education, and B.Ed. For the past five years he has been Athletic Director at Ridley. He will be teaching Math and Science in addition to some Phys. Ed.

MICHAEL HANSON

Michael Hanson joins St. Andrew's after a year at Appleby College. He will be teaching Chemistry and Computer Science. Michael has a B.Sc. and B.Ed. from University of Toronto.

JO HAYWARD HAINES

Jo Hayward Haines comes to St. Andrew's with teaching experience in the Ontario public system, the United States and India. She has a B.A. in Art/English from Brown University and B.Ed. from Toronto, and will be teaching Art and French.

W. T. PENTLAND

In the eighty-two year history of St. Andrews, only two boys have been members of 12 or more First teams in a major sport discipline.

From the period 1933 to 1937, W.T. (Paul) Pentland participated in the following:

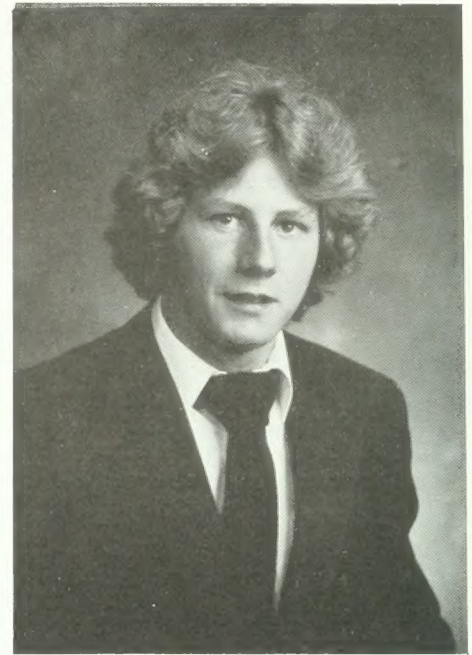

FIRST CRICKET	FIRST HOCKEY	FIRST FOOTBALL
1933	1933	—
1934	1934	1935
1935	1935	1936
1937	1937	—

Paul also played on First Basketball in 1935 during the hockey season. In those days it was permissible under certain conditions to participate in two major sport disciplines at the same time. This has not been allowable for a good number of years.

This year, 1981, Ken Marshall leaves St. Andrews after seven years, and he is the first boy since Paul Pentland, in what is almost 50 years, to achieve this plateau. From the period 1977 to 1981, Ken Marshall participated in the following:

FIRST CRICKET	FIRST SOCCER	FIRST HOCKEY
1977	1977	1979
1978	1978	1980
1979	1979	1981

In all, he has represented St. Andrews College in 245 games at the I.S.A.A. first level of major discipline divided into 101 First Soccer, 93 First Hockey, and 51 First Cricket. The school athletic "letter" is awarded for 70 accumulated points. Ken has approximately 160 which, if not the highest, is one of the larger total ever achieved.

TENNIS TEAM VISITS MEXICO

Through the efforts of Old Boy Ramon Corona '56, S.A.C.'s First tennis team was invited to Mexico City during the spring break, to take part in a series of schoolboy and club tournaments. From all accounts, the team acquitted itself well and brought back several trophies. The hospitality extended by their hosts was so lavish that a team of Mexican boys representing Club Estado Mayor Presidencial was invited to make a return visit to Aurora which took place April 30 to May 4. During this time, a series of triangular matches were arranged with teams from Ridley and Upper Canada. The St. Andrew's team consisted of Scott Smith, Michael Bedard, Bernie Ruhl, Brian Eby and Pablo Suinaga with coach David Timms. Representing Estado Mayor Presidencial were Gerardo Quintana, Jesus Irogoyen, Gerardo Romero, Alejandro Vivian, Eurique Soto and coach Mario Llamas.

ASSOCIATION GOLF

Despite the lack of mail service and the necessity of imparting the information by word of mouth, approximately the usual number of people turned up for the Annual Association Golf Tournament on Friday, August 13. A new format this year was developed by Chairman Al McClelland '76 and his committee of Greg Miklas '76 and Don Slessor '75. It was considered too expensive to go to the Board of Trade Club or one of the better known golf clubs, so a new course Pheasant-Run, just east of Newmarket was obtained which has a more modest green fee. Although only opened this year the course was in excellent condition and a rest test. Because it is close to S.A.C. everyone came back to the school for a very enjoyable and informal barbecue steak dinner. Following dinner, prizes were distributed and it seems no one went away empty handed.

Greg Miklas took low gross honours with a fine 76, closely followed by Frank McMulkin '72 and John Middup '77. Bill Adams '35 won the low net trophy.

OLD BOYS BASKETBALL

Veteran Old Boys' team organizer Doug Robertson came to Aurora on March 14 with a gallant band of 10 players who put up a great showing against the powerful Firsts. Scoring 49 points was sufficient for a victory by the Old Boys in 1980 but not this year. Fresh from their ISAA championship season, the Firsts piled up 30 more to win 79 - 49.

Top scorer for the Old Boys was George Edwards '79 with 12 points. Others taking part were Dave Rose, George Kilpatrick, Gregg Westcott and Robertson all of '72, Don Rose and John Kitchen '75, Roly Nimmo '76, Geoff Scott '79 and George Dangerfield '66.

FIRST BASKETBALL

FIRST BASKETBALL — I.S.A.A. CHAMPIONS 1981

With most of his 'starting five' back from last year's championship team coach Gord Ackerman lost no time in getting the 1981 edition of First Basketball into top form. Only a week into the Winter term the team found itself in the early season ISAA tournament hosted this year by T.C.S. from which the Saints emerged victorious. Opponents in the eight team league schedule were met and defeated one by one, although a squeaker with Ridley was won only by an S.A.C. basket in the final 18 seconds. At the midway point S.A.C. was comfortably at the top of the standings. Perhaps a bit over-confident by this time the boys then suffered their first defeat losing to Upper Canada by two points - a team they had already beaten three times, twice in the tournament and once in an exhibition game! This proved to be the only loss of the season as all remaining league games were won, leaving St. Andrew's in first place by a margin of six points.

The team was capably led by Captain Andy (Stump) Gregg and Arnold Cargill was voted MVP. Next year will pose a real challenge for coach Ackerman as all but one of the starting five will have graduated in June.

T. GEORGE ARMSTRONG 1915 - 1981

St. Andrew's has lost one of its most loyal and hard working Old Boys in the person of Thomas George Armstrong, who died on August 11 this year.

One of three brothers to attend the School from North Bay, George entered in September 1926 when the new school opened in Aurora and graduated in 1933. In his final year he somehow managed to combine the duties of Head Prefect, playing centre on First Football, being Captain of First Hockey and First Cricket, O.C. the Cadet Corps and winning the trophy as the best shot! Following S.A.C. he attended Queen's University for two years and then entered the business world with Canada Life. In World War II he enlisted in the Royal Canadian Artillery and was discharged in 1945 with the rank of Lieutenant.

In 1947 George joined long time friend Jack Rayner in forming the construction firm of Rayner and Armstrong Ltd. Engaged mostly in road building, the firm was also part of a joint venture to carry out work on the St. Lawrence Seaway system. Other interests included the Gill Lumber Co. Ltd. Inactive during most of the seventies, the firm was dissolved not long ago.

In recent years George devoted much of his time to the Ontario Golf Association of which he became President, and the Royal Canadian Golf Association which he headed in 1977. As a member of the R.C.G.A.'s rules committee, he collaborated with the Royal and Ancient and the United States Golf Association in establishing worldwide uniformity in the rules of golf.

St. Andrew's became the beneficiary of George's energy and advice when he was appointed to the Board of Governors in 1960. For thirteen years he rarely missed a meeting, and graciously accepted any tasks he was asked to undertake. Appointed Vice Chairman in 1967 he served until his retirement in 1973. During his years on the Board, George gave excellent leadership and help in dealing with all aspects of school matters including finances, buildings and grounds, fund raising, enrollment and public relations. He was a key member of the building and development committees for the extensive additions to the school in 1962, 1971 and 1979. George also served as first President of the reconstituted S.A.C. Association in 1968 - 69. Such devoted involvement will be difficult to replace.

To his wife, Mary, his daughters, Marilyn Freer and Virginia Paton, and his son Brian (S.A.C. 1955 - 61) the Andean extends deepest sympathy on behalf of the entire St. Andrew's community.
